Hurricane Preparedness Reminder

As we move into the peak of hurricane season, please take time to ensure you have an emergency supply kit readily available. Hurricane season officially runs from June 1 through November 30 each year. While June and July are typically less active for storms affecting our area, the period from August through mid-October is when hurricanes are most likely to pose a threat to our region.

Although we are located more than 200 miles inland, history has shown that tropical systems can still have significant and devastating impacts. Events such as Hurricane Hugo and, more recently, Hurricane Helene serve as reminders of the severe weather effects our region can experience.

To help you and your family stay prepared, it is recommended that you maintain at least a 72-hour supply of essential emergency items. Please review the attached Emergency Supply Checklist to ensure you have the necessary supplies on hand should an emergency occur. Stay safe, stay prepared, and monitor weather conditions throughout the hurricane season.
